Passage ۲ (S, T, ۹۰):

Although all forms of communication have language, the word usually refers to the use of written or spoken words.

Human language is the most complicated form of expression available to us. Simply to understand what you are reading at this very moment involves much intelligence and skill. An adult speaks on average ۳۰,۰۰۰ words a day and a total of ۶۰۰ million words in an average life time. Language has a profound effect on all our lives.

We learn language from childhood; we learn how to make sounds which can be formed into words, and discover that we have to apply certain rules of grammar if we are to be understood. We learn to say "He saw me", but "I saw him". The way of joining words together into grammatically acceptable sentences are enormous. If you were to speak aloud all ۶۰-word sentences that would make sense in the English language, it would take you ten million years to do so.

When we use words, we are using symbols; the word "elephant" should refer to a large grey animal with thick skin because speakers of the English language have agreed that this word should be the symbol for that particular animal.

Sometimes there is disagreement about the meanings of words. Usually these words refer to ideas or concepts, rather than to things. For instance (example), not everyone agrees about the exact meaning of words such as "freedom", "love", "justice", or "peace". If the sender and the receiver disagree about these meanings, communication breaks down.

The study of the relationship between language and meaning is called Semantics. (S, T, ۹۰)

۵۰. The passage is basically intended to offer:
- a definition of spoken communication
  - a description of language
  - a comparison between written and spoken languages
  - an explanation of different forms of communication
۵۱. Which of the following is true, according to paragraph ۲?
- Every individual uses at least ۳۰,۰۰۰ words per day.
  - Intelligence and skill are two parts of human language.
  - The total number of words in most human languages is about ۶۰۰ million.
  - Far from being simple, what humans use to communicate is so complicated.
۵۲. The last sentence in paragraph ۲ "If you were to speak ....ten million years to do so," is intended to prove that.....
- Language took a long time to develop into a complicated form.
  - Language has the potential to produce so many sentences.
  - One can say different things through the same words.
  - If one uses ۶۰ _ word _ long sentences all the time, one would fail to communicate.
۵۳. The writer refers to all of the following words about whose meaning there may sometimes be disagreement EXCEPT.....:
- peace
  - justice
  - freedom
  - elephant

۴. With which of the following conclusions (results) does the writer seem more likely to agree?
- a. We need to make human language more simple.
  - b. Overuse of words may cause communication failure.
  - c. there is not necessarily a natural relationship between words and meanings
  - d. People should study Semantics if they want their sentences to be grammatically correct.
